Brian S. Holman

After a successful Major League Baseball career with the Montreal Expos, the Seattle Mariners and the Cincinnati Reds, Brian was forced to retire in 1994 due to an arm injury. Brian began his business career in 1995. From 2000 to 2013 Brian served as a Managing Director as well as a Sr. Client Advisor with Ronald Blue & Co. Brian now focuses a majority of his attention on his motivational speaking as well as advising and mentoring both amateur and professional baseball players. He remains heavily involved in youth baseball in and around the Dallas/Fort Worth, TX, area and across the U.S. where he conducts private pitching lessons, camps, and clinics for teams and individuals out of Texas Edge Sports in Granbury, TX.

Brian is a highly respected and sought after motivational speaker. From the tragic loss of his daughter Kassidy to leukemia, to his son David's heroic battle with a brain tumor and subsequent journey into professional baseball, he and his family know the pain of personal loss and have overcome great adversity. Brian uses his life experiences to encourage and inspire a host of audiences. His inspirational messages combined with stories from his professional playing days have had a tremendous impact when shared at churches, youth-family and men's outreach conferences, sports awards banquets, and corporate events across the United States and Canada.

Brian is a member of the Major League Baseball Players Alumni Association and in 2007 was inducted into the Kansas Baseball Hall of Fame along with Joe Carter, Bill James, and Phil Stephenson. He and his wife, Jami, live Granbury, TX, and have four children Scott, David, Jennifer, and Kassidy.
